

Mrs Alfred Collier

Rushworth Chronicle

20 January, 1888

With deep feelings of sorrow we regret to have to announce the death of Mrs Alfred Collier, wife of the respected manager of the Commercial Bank, Rushworth.

This sad event took place on Sunday last at Waranga Park, the residence of the deceased's parents.

For some time past the mourned one has been a great sufferer, owing to a severe cold, which, notwithstanding the most careful nursing and attention of her relatives and the unlimited consultations of skilled medical advisers in our own town and in the metropolis, eventuated in a rapid form of consumption.

The deceased was well-known to all in this district, and highly esteemed, giving at all times, while in the enjoyment of full health, ready assistance in musical and social gatherings.

The deepest feelings of commiseration is felt for her bereaved husband and relatives.

The remains of the deceased were interred in the Presbyterian portion of our local cemetery on Tuesday, and was followed by a very large concourse of friends.

The Rev. H. Collier, brother-in-law of the deceased, officiated at the funeral service.

The coffin was covered with wreaths of flowers, the last offering of the many true friends who grieve her loss.
